

OUR BUSINESS SCHOOL FACULTY

We have faculty from various departments across the School of Business that are dedicated to working with our students. The Department of Economics, Department of Management & Marketing, and Department of Supply Chain & Information Management are our close collaborators with faculty teaching courses, advising our students, and serving on committees.

DEPARTMENT OF ECONOMICS

DR. WESLEY BURNETT

Dr. Burnett teaches the core course Economic Theory for Policy Analysis. He serves as an active advisor and committee member for our students interested in environmental economics and energy and resource economics.

DR. CALVIN BLACKWELL

Dr. Blackwell is the Department Chair of the Economics Department. He teaches the core course Economic Theory for Policy Analysis. His research interests include experimental economics, asset markets, and public finance.

DEPARTMENT OF MANAGEMENT & MARKETING

DR. DAVID HANSEN

Dr. Hansen serves as an active advisor to our students interested in sustainable business and entrepreneurship. He has also taught the EVSS elective course, Ecopreneurship.

DEPARTMENT OF SUPPLY CHAIN & INFORMATION MANAGEMENT

DR. KENT GOURDIN

Dr. Gourdin serves as a current advisor and committee member to our students. Within the School of Business, he specializes in logistics and marketing management and transportation policy. He also serves as the Director of Global Logistics and Transportation Program.
